Keynote Speaker:

Judge Tammy Kemp

Best known for giving a Bible and a hug to Amber Guyger after her controversial murder trial, Judge Tammy Kemp is living her faith in a difficult world.

*“Living Faith
In Difficult Times”
Celebration of God & Family*

Hear how her faith is woven not only in her everyday life, but also her intense work as a judge and with her family. Kemp was propelled to the national stage by the trial of Amber Guyger, a white cop convicted in the shooting of Botham Jean, a black man in his apartment she said she mistakenly thought was her own. What occurred that caused Judge Kemp to give Amber the Bible? Does she feel she would have been criticized if Amber were black? How does she handle world pressure? Married and mother of three adult children, Judge Tammy Kemp is the presiding judge of the 204th Judicial District Court in Dallas County, Texas. The 204th hears all felony criminal cases, including capital murders. Tammy is member of Concord Church, where she serves in the deaconess ministry.

Prayer by Ali Master, Ernst & Young Executive; Guest Host of Parent Compass Episode “Beyond the Golden Door”

Innovator. Leader focused on creating a culture of belonging. Author of book on the America Dream. Dad. Husband. Church leader. Professional cricketer wannabe and always hopeful Dallas Cowboy fan. This Pakistani immigrant says the American Dream is still alive. To find out, watch the Master family episode and read his page-turning book by the same name, “Beyond the Golden Door”.

After flying past the Statue of Liberty coming to the USA at age 19, Ali proceeded to party regularly, flunk out of school and be fired from flipping burgers at McDonalds. Trying to get out of a toxic relationship found him in the hospital after a suicide attempt. Then he met Jesus, so intensely that he naively went back to Pakistan to tell the good news to his strong Muslim family. He lives to tell the story today. Of Parent Compass Ali says, “I just love the powerful message of redemptive hope that can be only found in Jesus Christ that is at the heart of Parent Compass episodes”.
